Poem for Class of '56

After Tennyson's "Locksley Hall"

Classmates, rest we here a little, while our life is yet at morn;
Pause and voice the new emotion that of this glad hour are born.

Dear old school! How much days here slowly led us on to know!
How much then undreamed-of knowledge we are taking as we go!

Many a day we've sat and pondered over some strangely puzzling text,
Wondering what our wise instructors could bring forth to ask us next!

Many a day we've worked some problem through in gratifying style,
Trying to make ourselves believe that we had known it all the while.

Here about the grounds we've wandered. talking over all we've read,
Thinking thoughts too deep for utterance--dreaming what must ne'er be said;

When we leaped into a future, far as human brain might see,
Saw the Vision of our lives and all the wonders that might be!

Boys will surely come to manhood; men will surely older grow;
Will the dreams of future glory follow after as we go?

Are the gates not thronged with suitors, do not markets overflow?
We are young, and know so little! Where's the place for us to go?

Ah! We're well prepared for action! Watch us write on History's page,
Names to shine throughout the centuries as the wonder of the age!

For we feel a wild pulsation summoning to active strife,
With a whole world for the winning, in the tumult of young life!

Yearning for the wild excitement only strife worth while can yield,
Eager-hearted as in class room forging through some new-found field.

We have conquered in that class-room -- we shall win in efforts new;
That which we have done but promise all the things we yet shall do!

For I doubt not through our future life's increasing purpose runs,
And our thoughts, too, will be widened by the process of the suns.

O Commencement! not the ending that is seems to all our strife,
But the gate that opens outward to a bigger, broader life!

Classmates, may the crescent promise of our spirit never set,
But the fount of inspiration gush through all our fancy yet;

Howsoever life may lead, a long farewell to school we say,
And to principle and teacher, nevermore to point our way.

There's a blessing in my soul, friends, welling from its deepest part
Gathering in its hold the deepest, truest, throbbings of my heart.

Let it fall on our dear school and every old, as we know
We must clasp each hand and whisper, "Good-bye, Classmates!" as we go.
